

Review – Dark Waters

Good – 25	OK – 5	Poor – 1
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• A worthy film. One feels humble and so grateful to someone who battled on to try and make the world a better place for all. A good example of the fact we have to stand up to those motivated by greed.</li> <li>• It kept one's interest and seems remarkably true to the real events. I completely see the devastating effects on that town in West Virginia, but was not really convinced it was a problem for the rest of the world. (so keeping my Teflon pans!)</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• It was a bit long winded with some of the American accents hard to follow and the actual outcome was hard to read.</li> <li>• Sound not clear; and several scenes not well lit (presumably to enhance the gloominess)</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• The sound-track was the problem. I would have voted "good" if I had understood more of the American spoken</li> </ul>

<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• In fact very good - the filmmakers managed to make a lengthy courtroom affair into a powerful drama with a palpable sense of dread and menace. A depressing message though, and one we have seen before - huge corporations are so powerful that they can kill with impunity. Even the final settlement revealed in the closing titles represented less than a year's worth of profits for DuPont.</li> <li>• Definitely a good film.</li> <li>• 'Tis ever thus. (Du Pont replaced toxic intermediary PFOA with toxic GenX and continued dumping.)</li> <li>• It was an eye opener and we were really engrossed. Very good acting indeed.</li> <li>• It was a very interesting and thought provoking film, with good acting throughout. Thank you for showing it.</li> <li>• Found the film absorbing and though a longer film, it was a long legal process, had us engaged and wanting to see how those involved fared. Powerful film, thanks for screening it.</li> <li>• As good as the reviews. It may have been "slow burning" but that just added to the impact. DOWN WITH TEFLON!!</li> <li>• Very interesting thank you.</li> <li>• Mark Ruffalo was excellent in the lead role, especially after being used to seeing him as The Hulk, but was there ever a better part for (a younger)Tom Hanks?</li> <li>• This was our first evening at the club.</li> <li>• We both enjoyed the film and thought it was "Good". Prompted me to have a look further into the background of the case. Looking forward to the next one.</li> <li>• Excellent – acting good also.</li> <li>• Not an easy watch, but an important one. The film was quite slow paced and complicated, reflecting the speed and complexity of the investigations and the court cases. We</li> </ul>	of the subject-matter!). What a sorry tale - not the first of its kind; and, sadly, will not be the last. Thank you for showing it, though. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• A depressing watch, and the sound was a bit loud and muffled.</li> <li>• I thought the film was slightly too long, but proves that perseverance pays off!</li> </ul> should all admire those people who fight for what is right and just, rather than pursuing financial gain at all costs.

- A slow burn storyline, which reflected the legal process being followed, but never boring. A scary and thought provoking story that we all need to be aware of. Great film.
- The outcome was obvious from the start but I found it gripping and enjoyable. Another forceful indictment of the power of massive capitalist corporations which subvert democracy and are even more dangerous today.
- Very good – completely gripping and a shocking true story. Great casting and acting. Thank you for showing it!
