

Review – Roman Holiday

| Good – 23 | OK – 1 |
|--|---|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none">• I thought the film was very good. I really enjoyed it. Although it was made over 60 years ago it didn't feel that dated. A nice feel good film that bucked me up no end.• Most enjoyable, witty dialogue, Audrey Hepburn was delightful and Rome looked stunning, even in black and white. Not as dated as expected. Rounded off nicely by an excellent meal at the Bank House. Thank you to the organisers.• Really enjoyed this film. Black & white didn't entirely convey sunny Italy but it did match the melancholy conclusion. Curious choice of name for the princess given the existence of a real Ann(e).• A lovely Sunday afternoon film which seems to have stood the test of time. It was | <ul style="list-style-type: none">• I did wonder whether Trumbo had been blacklisted for bad scriptwriting rather than his politics... It looked fantastic, Rome and Audrey were both glowing! And who couldn't watch Gregory Peck for hours? He must have had the widest shoulders in Hollywood! | nice to have a 'feel good' film which made us laugh. A really nice meal at The Bankhouse, thank you for organising it.

- Very good - slapstick was beautifully done.
- I enjoyed Roman Holiday. It was a nice light-hearted film for a dreary January day.
- A classic which has stood the test of time. Even though some attitudes were dated, and, obviously, technology has moved on, the issues of press intrusion, 'living in a bubble', and the idea of duty are still as relevant today as they ever were. Gregory Peck and Audrey Hepburn both have great charm. An ideal choice for a gentle Sunday matinee. Thanks for showing this.
- All 3 of us thought it very good. Atmospheric, and evocative of the time, with 'proper old newspaper hacks' and old-fashioned cameras, etc. Engaging and funny, with a sad ending, - they ought really to have gone off into the sunset together, but that wasn't to be, for so many reasons. You can see a direct parallel between Princess Margaret and Peter Townshend's story. We thought the script was a bit weird and quite weak in places, but it was so entertaining that fact was forgiven. Thank you for organising the supper, it provided a pleasant end to the day.
- I thought it was charming and of its time. It was lovely to see the sights of Rome in the back ground. One wonders if it was made today whether the ending would be the same?
- We thought it was a delightful way to spend the afternoon - more of the same, please. It's such a pleasure to see these Classics as they were meant to be seen - on the big screen!! Thank you.
- I really enjoyed seeing this film on the big screen. I had seen excerpts on tv, but can't remember seeing the whole film before. Having visited Rome it had added meaning. The acting was so natural. A delightful way to spend a rainy January afternoon.
- A delight!
- I loved it! Thank you for showing it!

- | | |
|--|--|
| <ul style="list-style-type: none">• We really liked the film. I have seen it before, but could remember nothing of the beginning up until they meet on the Spanish Steps. Thanks for giving my memory a helping hand.• Lovely film. | |
|--|--|